Role of the Community in the Oregon Master Plan's Adoption Process

The community and its stakeholders are the cornerstone of the planning process and policy decisions that affect the future development and growth of the City of Portland. While the Master Plan is a comprehensive document that provides a strategic framework for urban and regional planning, it is the community that ultimate holds the key to its success.

The Master Plan is a living document that evolves over time as the community's needs and aspirations change. It is important that the community is involved in the planning process at every stage, from the initial planning phase to the implementation of the plan. This involvement ensures that the plan reflects the community's values and priorities, and that it is a tool that is used to address the challenges facing the community.

A thorough review of the Master Plan's adoption process reveals several key principles that can be applied to the planning process in the future.

MOPP Plan Amendments

The Florida comprehensive planning and growth management laws, as well as the U.S. Code of Federal Regulations, require the city to update its comprehensive plan every ten years.
In 2021, the City Commission approved a new comprehensive plan titled the growth management plan that guides development in the city for the next 30 years.

The City Commission also approved a new MOPP Plan (MOPP Plan) that includes changes to the city's existing MOPP Plan. The MOPP Plan includes new policies and procedures that will be used to manage growth and development in the city.

The MOPP Plan Amendments will be submitted to the Florida Department of Urban Affairs for review and approval. The city will also hold public hearings and accept public comments before the MOPP Plan Amendments are submitted to the Florida Department of Urban Affairs.

Step 1: Open End-Use Budget Categories for the TIP

The TIP Guidelines also provide for the expenditure of MPO funds to be obligated only if the project meets one of the following requirements:

2. The project is being funded by another transportation program.
3. The project is being funded by another federal, state, or local program.
4. The project is being funded by a local government.
5. The project is being funded by a local public authority.
